With this issue "grapevine" has a new and expanded look. We hope to publish an issue of this E.O.P. newsletter on a regular bi-weekly basis. Grapevine will list events and activities of interest, as well as provide a place where you can air your views on any subject. There will be a "guest" columnist whose views will be published in each issue. If you would like to participate as a contributing columnist, call x2864. There will also be a "personals" columns where you can publish a message or place an ad, all free of charge. Grapevine is your publication, and will be as important and interesting as you make it... so make it!

EDUCATIONAL

The Harvard Medical School is actively seeking qualified applicants from minority groups. Early submission of your application is to your advantage. Applications are available beginning in June through the Harvard Medical School Admissions Office. The committee must receive your application on or before November 1st or the application cannot be considered. If you'd like more information contact Fred Edmondson, x2361.

QUESTIONS relating to your 100 level math courses?
ANSWERS are provided every Tuesday and Thursday, 9:30-3:30 in Room 307 of Math-Science. These workshops, called Math-Study Halls, make graduate students available to help you with any difficulties in Math you may have.

OPPORTUNITIES

The Admissions office, through a series of "college nights", is planning its recruitment activities in the Rochester and surrounding area high schools. If you'd like to participate in encouraging high school seniors to apply to the University of Rochester, contact Jim Harden in 147 of the Administration Building, or call him at x3221 during the week of September 29.

If you're interested in becoming a "C.A.," Mike Tyler is now accepting applications. The Counselor Aides serve as informal listeners to students and help to make the best possible use of the university's resources. C.A.s also function as informal advisers to the Director of E.O.P.

The Rochester bus company, Regional Transit Service, offers reduced rates on buses between 9:30 and 3:30. There is also some free bus service in the downtown area. For information about times and costs call RTS at 288-6050.
